In 2019, the four states with the highest reimbursement average for all included procedures were Alaska ($2613.913), Florida ($2462.45), New York ($2447.51), and Montana ($2358.74). The four states with the lowest reimbursement averages were Mississippi ($1789.06), Nebraska ($1789.06), Indiana ($1825.87), and Iowa ($1834.485). From 2000 to 2019, the four states with the largest decrease in reimbursement after adjusting for inflation were Wisconsin (-32.92%), Hawaii (-32.86%), California (-32.35%), and Michigan (-31.85%). The four states with the smallest decrease in reimbursement average after adjusting for inflation were Montana (-12.51%), New Mexico (-19.22%), Utah (-19.45%), and West Virginia (-20.69%).

Results

In 2019, the four states with the highest reimbursement average for all included procedures were Alaska ($2613.913), Florida ($2462.45), New York ($2447.51), and Montana ($2358.74). The four states with the lowest reimbursement averages were Mississippi ($1789.06), Nebraska ($1789.06), Indiana ($1825.87), and Iowa ($1834.485). From 2000 to 2019, the four states with the largest decrease in reimbursement after adjusting for inflation were Wisconsin (-32.92%), Hawaii (-32.86%), California (-32.35%), and Michigan (-31.85%). The four states with the smallest decrease in reimbursement average after adjusting for inflation were Montana (-12.51%), New Mexico (-19.22%), Utah (-19.45%), and West Virginia (-20.69%).